Union Depot Park

CITY RENTS UNION DEPOT PARK CHEAP

Tribune-Star 6-28-42

The Union Depot Park, located near the business district, is one of the few Terre Haute parks which doesn't belong to the city. This small park, used largely for relaxation and resting, is leased yearly from the Pennsylvania Railroad for the sum of one dollar.

Because Union Depot Park is located near the hotels on North Ninth street, and is directly in front of the Union Depot, it is used extensively.

Every summer the park's trees are trimmed and the grass is kept mowed, the park being maintained by the roving gang from the parks department.

Overlooking the Wabash river, the beautiful Chancey Rose Memorial park, near Terre Haute, has become one of the state's most attractive spots.
